The College of Charleston spring semester in Trujillo, Spain offers students the opportunity to study with faculty from CofC and the Universidad de Extremadura. Students pay a program fee and CofC tuition for the semester. All financial aid and scholarships apply. Students will enroll in 12-15 credit hours. The program includes several days of excursions to Andalusia (Córdoba, Granada and Sevilla) and Madrid.

Trujillo is located in the Extremadura region of Spain, southwest of Madrid, about 60 miles from the Portuguese border. A thriving center of tourism with a rich historical past, Trujillo is the place of origin of many conquistadors, including the Pizarros. Cáceres, a UN designated World Heritage City and the site of the Universidad de Extremadura, lies about a half an hour west of Trujillo. Classes are held in the Coria, a 17th century restored convent, from Monday through Thursday, allowing students ample time for excursions and internship work. Students will live with host families in Trujillo.

Dr. Colomina-Garrigos is Associate Professor in the Hispanic Studies department at the College of Charleston. She directed the Fall 2005 study abroad program to Santiago, Chile, and the summer 2005 study abroad program to Trujillo, Spain.

Dr. Celeste Lacroix is Associate Professor in the Department of Communication at the College of Charleston. She has co-directed the Spring semester program to Trujillo, Spain 6 times previously, and also has co-directed the summer study abroad program to Austria, Germany and Italy for the past 4 summers.
